Multiplayer is also an essential feature of Mount&Blade 2, Mount&Blade: Evil Edition, and Mount&Blade: World Tour. Early Mount&Blade games In the early Mount&Blade games, including Mount&Blade: Dark Alliance, Mount&Blade: With Fire & Sword, and Mount&Blade: First War, multiplayer was limited to local area network (LAN) or internet play, either by direct connections or through irc. As of the release of Mount&Blade: First Kingdom, the multiplayer functions in Mount&Blade were improved. In that game, players could join a multiplayer game through either direct connection or through an internet connection, and also through the game's mod system. As of Mount&Blade: With Fire & Sword, there is no support for online multiplayer. Mount&Blade: With Fire & Sword Mount&Blade: With Fire & Sword has both internet and LAN-based multiplayer. The game is designed for a LAN, and there is no support for internet multiplayer. As of August 2013, no official fixes have been released. If a player connects to the game while on the same LAN, they can join multiplayer games with each other. If players connect to the game through an internet connection, however, they cannot participate in multiplayer games. If the internet connection is bad, the server can be restarted, but this is done at the cost of all progress being lost. Mount&Blade: First War Mount&Blade: First War has LAN and internet multiplayer. It also has a mod system that allows mods to be made for multiplayer. The mod system allows players to join servers that are using the mods they made, so players can play multiplayer games together. On the downside, the mod system has not been updated for five years, and there are no guarantees that a server's mod will work correctly with the mod that the server's players are using.
